Meet Shannon McClain-accomplished jewelry maker, loving mother, and recent widow. Shannon runs her own custom jewelry business from a workshop next to her home in Scotland. While she works hard to ensure her teenage children get the attention and guidance they need, the money from her late husband's insurance policy is nearly depleted, and she struggles to make ends meet. When a mysterious package arrives from a law firm in the United States, Shannon is shocked to learn she's been listed as a beneficiary in the will of Victoria Paisley, a wealthy stranger who claimed to be her grandmother. Shannon never knew her maternal grandmother because her own mother vanished from her life when she was four years old. Her father wouldn't discuss her mother's disappearance, and Shannon could never understand why. To claim the unexpected inheritance, Shannon must travel from her home in Scotland to the coastal town of Apple Grove, Oregon, and attend the reading of the will. Upon arrival she finds new friends among the townsfolk, including the women of the Purls of Hope knitting circle. But she also finds danger. It seems not everyone in town is happy she's there. Someone will go to great lengths to try and make her leave before she can claim her inheritance...or unearth a dark family secret. Is Shannon willing to risk her life to finally learn the truth about her family? And can she trust the handsome investigator who offers his help? Join Shannon and her friends as they unravel the mystery behind her mother's disappearance and discover the identity of the one person who would like nothing more than to see Shannon disappear as well.

Pony walls and old counter coming out, along with walls no longer needed. And, those nasty particle board shelves that were warped and damaged.
